CLASS HISTORY

We, as the juniors of 1947-48, developed a given amount of sophistication and presented the play, "Her Emergency Husband," which was a big success.

We wonder how many aspirins Mrs. Bryson took for headaches during those practices. At the end of that year, we knew that three of our classmates wouldn't be back to graduate with us. These were Sarah Hudson, who became Mrs. Brandon Summey, and Darius Kilpatrick, who entered the Navy. Mary Crunkleton enrolled in school at Highlands. Our Reception was the first formal one at the school.

When our class entered high school in 1945, there were thirty of us. By the time we became seniors, seventeen of the original group were gone and Favis Lowery had enrolled as a member of our group in the sophomore class. Four of these are married, five have enrolled in other schools, two are now in service, while others have accepted employment.

During our first year in high school, we were very well behaved pupils, except for hiding in the pantry to skip tests. (To our sorrow we were caught and had to take the tests during lunch period.)

As sophomores, we had become accustomed to the new routine and we felt as if we were full-fledged high school students. We participated in new activities such as F.H.A. and basketball. And of course, we girls were chosen to serve the delicious food for the Junior-Senior Reception. The boys, under the direction of Mr. Bales, took a trip through Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, and Alabama.

Fourteen of us returned in '48 as seniors. As in previous years, our time was filled with classes, clubs, class play, "Grandad Meets a Pal," and publication of the second school annual. Again, during the preceding summer, some of the boys and Mr. Bales took another trip, this time to Florida. Even though the boys took the trips, the girls had their fun at school.

We are proud of the fact that our class ranked high in everything we undertook, and we always worked together as one.

Thus ends the class history of the seven boys and seven girls who graduated from Rosman in 1949.

CLASS SONG

Tune: "OLD FOLKS AT HOME"

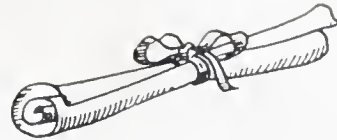

Way up in the Blue Ridge Mountains
Stands our Rosman High,
There's where we long to linger ever
Rather than say Good-bye.

(chorus)

Now our school days left behind us
There our hearts will be,
Still longing for our friends and teachers
And pleasant memories.

All up and down the halls we wandered,
From class to class,
Never doubting for a single moment
That we wouldn't fail to pass.

As we leave our dear old Rosman High School,
With us will remain
All our detention hall assignments
And the good we gained.

CLASS POEM

It was in the year of '44,
This class entered the high school door,
By our hard work we passed the grades,
Still feeling assured of our teachers' aid.

Of course we tho't we were the "stuff,"
Because our wits were quick enough
To baffle our friends and teachers,
Unless they were unusual creatures.

But soon we found to our dismay,
That they were wise to our display,
So to our work we settled down
Unless we chose to receive a frown.

And now we're in our senior year,
Of our dear teachers we have no fear,
But shall strive to do our best
To be successful in life's conquest.

Now is the time we say goodbye,
To our Alma Mater, Rosman High,
With all the memories left behind,
Onward we go, the class of '49.

CLASS PROPHECY

As I, June Sisk, sat in French class a few days ago and looked about me, I wondered where the members of our class would be seven or eight years hence. In my thoughts I created a fanciful daydream concerning the future of my classmates of '49, and these are the places I found them.

For myself, I had completed a special training course, and I was making one of my early trips as an airline hostess.

As the pilot of the plane, Ray Fisher, helped me check the passenger list, we were very surprised to find that Hubert Callahan and some of his teammates were en route to Texas to play the "Texas Longhorns".

After assuring myself that all was well with the passengers, I relaxed for a reminiscing chat with Hubert concerning our former classmates.

He told me Favis Lowery had been hired as a comedian in the Barnum-Bailey Circus. Hubert said it was too bad Favis couldn't be at the hospital to "clown" for him when he was receiving treatment for an accident suffered in a football game.

However, he received excellent care from his attending physician, Dr. Ila Stophel, and nurses Cloe Garren and Nell McKinney. Nell told him she was to be married to "Shorty" in the near future.

During a brief interval between topics of our conversation, I scanned the daily paper. I was pleasantly surprised to find on the society page an attractive bride and groom of whom I recognized the former Augusta Galloway as bride and Luther Fisher as the groom. The account of the wedding stated that the ceremony was performed at the First Baptist Church in Greenville, South Carolina, by the pastor, Rev. Robert Orr, a former classmate at R.H.S.

Hubert told me he had heard that Hugh was quite happy as a forest ranger in Sacramento, California, and Bill Owen was "out West" on his farm, which he bought after serving two or three years in the army.

After several hours of flying, the plane landed at the airport near Houston, Texas. And who do you suppose met us there—none other than Exie Vee Wilde, a reporter for the "Houston Daily."

Before Hubert left the airport, he made a telephone call and then informed me that the charming voice of the telephone operator was that of Bettye June Fisher.

Following this interesting trip and discussion, Ray and I made our report and prepared for the return trip home.

I was at that moment interrupted from my delightful pastime when Miss Wiggins said, "June Sisk, will you please pay attention and answer the next question?"

CLASS WILL

We, the honorable Seniors of R.H.S. on this day, May 27, 1949, do hereby will our most worthy talents and possessions to the remarkable juniors, who, undoubtedly, will need them. We sincerely hope they use them to their advantage as we did.

Robert Orr leaves his charm and dignity to those boisterous boys, Tom and Max Whitmire.

We leave June Sisk's flirtatious mood to Ada Carter. Ada, we hope you use this in such a way that you won't be lonesome while you continue your school career.

Nell McKinney unselfishly leaves her bubble gum to Marie Greer and Marvella Staton. Girls, you will find it stuck under the first desk by the radiator in French Class. You know Nell always chewed enough for two.

Luther Fisher's unusual ability to reach high notes is bequeathed to Pete Lee and Ollie Mac Coggins, whose voices have sufficient volume to blend beautifully.

Augusta Galloway's true love for Luther is left for Bonnie Petit to cherish on her boyfriend who meets her downtown at lunch every day.

Bill Owen's good looks become Howard Lowe's and his typing adeptness is Paul Owen's.

Cloe wills her friendly personality to Mary Lee Callahan, who already has acquired many friends. Also, Cloe's giggles are for Gladys Gantt, who never (?) giggles.

Hubert Callahan, the Romeo of Rosman Hi for the past three years, regretfully leaves to Carlos Pangle his ability to make the girls swoon. Carlos is already progressing rapidly.

Betty June Fisher, with a free heart, leaves her loveliness to Mary Belle Pangle.

Hugh leaves his skill for using nouns as verbs to Evelyn Galloway and Gerald Owen, who together should make good work of it, although we doubt their being as good as Hugh on that particular subject.

Ila Stophel leaves her beauty to Betty Lou and Patricia Lance.

Ray Fisher leaves his much coveted knack of arguing with the teachers to Carl Alexander. Carl, we hope you have as much luck as Ray had.

To add to the cuteness of Tommie Fisher and Polly Pangle, Exie Vee Wilde wills one dimple to each.

Last, but not least, Favis Lowery, the genius of Rosman Hi for the past two and one-half years, does in his last will and testament leave as much as he can spare of his super-intelligence, to Bernice Whitmire, Dorothy Angel and Lois Dodson. He'll still have plenty left.

Signed and sealed on this day, May 27, 1948, before Dick Tracy, class lawyer.
